YSU crushes Panther playoff hopes

by Andy Savoie

Just over one month ago, some people were calling them "the best team in the state."

But after Eastern's defending national championship football team was all but eliminated from playoff contention with a 49-21 trouncing at the hands of Youngstown State, Panther head coach Darrell Mudra was singing a different tune.

"We're probably not as good a football team as we thought we were," Mudra said. "We probably underestimated the strength of Youngstown both offensively and defensively, he continued. "But we certainly never expected to get blown out like we did today."

The Panthers were soundly blown out by the Penguins, who clinched the Mid-Continent Conference title with their ninth straight victory. The triumph also left Youngstown with a perfect 5-0 mark in the MCC this season, and gave them an unblemished 10-0 ledger in the conference's first two years of existence.

The onslaught, witnessed by an O'Brien Stadium record crowd of 12,000, dropped Eastern's record to 6-3, 1-3 in the MCC and began during the Penguins very first offensive series, when wide receiver Jim Ferranti caught a 16-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Keith Snoddy to cap a 12 play, 96 yard drive. The TD catch was to be the first of two touchdown receptions for Ferranti, who caught nine in all for 137 yards, and triggered a streak in which Youngstown scored 21 points before Eastern could even manage a first down.

In fact, the Panthers offensive futility was such that Eastern's record breaking running back Poke Cobb was held to only 31 yards rushing in the first half.

"Today we played with four new offensive linemen. It probably hurt us more than we thought," Mudra said.

However, Cobb turned out to be one of the few bright spots for the Panthers Saturday breaking several long second half runs to finish with 173 yards on 25 carries.

But Cobb's efforts fell far short of negating the powerful Youngstown offense, which riddled the previously impenetrable Panther defense for 432 yards and 49 points, 28 more than any team has managed to score on the Panthers this season. Four of Youngstown's TD's were scored by Penguin tailback Robby Robson, who rushed for 111 yards in 27 attempts.

"Our game plan we ran today is the same one we ran all year. It was just a matter of execution," said Youngstown head coach Bill Narduzzi of the Penguins offensive strategy. "I don't think there's any question that this was our best football game of the year."

Nevertheless, Narduzzi still had high praise for the Eastern defense. "I don't care how many points we scored on them today, they're still the best defensive team we played all year."

Narduzzi also said the Penguins' desire to avenge last seasons 26-22 playoff loss to Eastern played a big part in the Penguins motivation Saturday.

"The fact that it was 336 days ago should tell you something," Narduzzi said. "We've counted the days since we got beat. Before we left this locker room last December, we started thinking about this game. I told them that if we went 1-10 next year, we were going to beat this football team."

This attitude served to spur on the Penguin defense, which held Eastern scoreless until 8:12 of the second quarter, when quarterback Steve Turk connected with wide receiver James Warring for a 17 yard touchdown strike. Turk, who had 14 completions in 33 attempts for 182 yards, also teamed up with flanker Scott McGhee for a nine yard scoring toss late in the fourth quarter.

Fry trial continues spite BOG dismissal effort

by Laura Rzepka

An effort to dismiss the case of the Board of Governors vs. Mary Fry by the BOG has been unsuccessful and all requests for exemption from Eastern's housing policy have been turned over to Fry and her representatives for use as possible evidence.

The case stemmed from a denial by the university last spring to allow Fry to live in the Covenant House, a Christian women's residence, operated by the Christian Campus House at Eastern.

Fry, the Christian Collegiate Fellowship and the Christian Campus House filed suit in the federal district court on April 12.

Fry, a sophomore at the time, was required to adhere to the policy of the university by living in a residence hall.

However, the university has an unwritten policy which allows sophomores to petition to live in a fraternity or sorority house, J. Robert Ross, the campus minister said in a summary he prepared of the case.

A survey conducted in March revealed 47 freshman and sophomore women living in sorority houses, Ross' report stated.

The case was not dismissed by Judge Harold Baker of the U.S. District Court in Danville on Sept. 13 because the court decided there was enough evidence to have a trial.

The next step in the proceedings is the deposition, Frank Brady, the attorney representing the BOG, said.

In a deposition, the lawyers for the plaintiff and the defendant question the adverse party while they are under oath, Brady said.

Housing Director Lou Hencken said, "the case is not about the freshman-sophomore policy but why sophomores are allowed to live in Greek houses and not allowed to live over there (the Covenant House)."

The complaint states that the university "denies plaintiffs due process of law under the 14th Amendment in that it unconstitutionally infringes their rights to free exercise of their religion guaranteed by the First Amendment."

The complaint also claims discrimination between Fry and persons living in off-campus fraternity and sorority houses.

The Christian Collegiate Fellowship paid $605 for Fry's room and board in a residence hall even though she did not live in one.

Fry's grades and transcripts might have been withheld if the money was not paid, Ross stated in the report.

Judge Baker ordered the university to turn over all records and documents of requests by students for exemption from the freshman-sophomore housing policy.

Relevant documents were released on Oct. 25 from the office of Glen Williams, vice president for student affairs.

"We are in the process of discovery right now. We have produced the documents the plaintiff has requested," Ross said.

"We are still in the process of examining these documents but we're finding that the university has been granting exemptions to sophomores," Ross added.

"At the beginning when the university was giving me a hard time I was anxious about it. I'm not real anxious anymore," Fry said.

"I know everything is going to work out. I feel we're going to win," she added.

Democrats enter presidential race

WASHINGTON — Efforts to wrest the 1980 Democratic nomination away from President Carter get under way in earnest this week as two challengers — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and California Gov. Edmund G. Brown formally declare their candidacies.

Kennedy goes first, with an announcement scheduled for Wednesday in Boston's Faneuil Hall. His declaration will be followed on Thursday by Brown's announcement at the National Press Club in Washington.

Both candidates will then hit the campaign trail with appearances scheduled for New Hampshire and Massachusetts, two early primary states.

Meanwhile, the scramble for the Republican nomination is also heating up, with the unexpected strong showing over the weekend by George Bush in a straw vote at a Republican forum in Maine.

Bush received 466 votes, outpolling Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee, who received 426 votes.

Group invades Liberty's crown

NEW YORK — Seven demonstrators, protesting the deposed Shah of Iran's presence in the United States, chained themselves in the Statue of liberty crown for 3 1/2 hours Sunday before authorities cut the chains and took them into custody.

The seven were being questioned by National Park Service officials on Liberty Island. They did not resist, according to Ellen Britton, acting superintendent of the national park in New York harbor.

Convicted killer marries in jail

JOLIET — In a five-minute ceremony in the Will County Jail, convicted killer John Louis Szabo was married to 16-year-old Loretta Jean Price.

The 21-year-old Szabo has been sentenced to die in the electric chair on May 29, 1980, for the Jan. 27 murders of two Bolingbrook brothers.

There was a two-tier cake and some decorations for Saturday's ceremony, the first wedding to take place in the jail. Armed guards were present at all times. The families congratulated each other but the bride was in tears in Szabo's arms.

Suspects sought in rally deaths

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Police searched on Sunday for two more cars and more suspects believed involved in the ambush at a "Death to the Klan" rally that left four people dead and 10 wounded.

Civil rights organizations, in the meantime, blamed the bloodbath on a resurgence of Ku Klux Klan activity

Abortionist slain by lone gunman

CHICAGO — Authorities continued their search Sunday for a lone gunman who killed a controversial abortion clinic operator in what police say was an execution-style murder.

Kenneth L. Yellin, 42, administrator of Biogenetics Ltd., a lucrative abortion clinic on fashionable Michigan Avenue, was found shot to death Saturday.

Police said Yellin had just parked his late-model sports car in a garage and was walking underground across lower Michigan Avenue when he was approached by a man wearing a field jacket and stocking cap.

Witnesses told police the men scuffled and suddenly a gunshot was heard.

"At that point, according to our witnesses, the offender stood over the victim and fired several more times," said Sgt. William Doyle of the Chicago Police Department.

Senate candidates vie for open seats in election

by Marc Pacatte

Fall student elections will be held Nov. 14 to fill sixteen student senate seats. Twenty-six candidates will be on the ballot, Student Senator Bob Glover said Sunday.

Five residence hall seats are open, and six students will be vying for them; six students are in contention for the five openings in the off-campus district; and 13 are on the ballot for six at-large district seats.

Fifteen of the open seats are full-year terms, but one seat in the at-large district will be for a half-year term, due to the resignation of Dean Prokos as senator earlier this semester.

The candidates will video tape speeches Monday to be shown from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Friday in the East Lounge in the University Union, Senator Dan Hunnicutt said.

Val Averill, RHA president, said they will endorse candidates for both residence hall and at-large district seats Thursday.

Candidates interested in participating in the RHA forum should sign up in the RHA office in the Union, Averill said.

owski, junior; Kris Salamone, junior; Bruce K. Morriss, senior; and Kim Howell, sophomore will seek at-large district seats.

The polling places for the election are Coleman Hall for residents of the South Quad and Carman Hall and the University Union for all other students. The polls will be open from 7:30 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Voters also will decide two issues at the election.

One issue is an informational vote to find out whether students would pay an extra $2 in student fees to support a proposed legal service, Glover said.

The second proposal would change the date of student government elections. Election dates have previously been changed each year because of conflicts with Thanksgiving break in the fall.

The proposed change would permanently move the fall semester election date ahead one week.

Black lifestyles subject of series

A lecture series which will examine the roles and opportunities of blacks in the United States begins Thursday.

The "Blacks in America" lecture series is sponsored by the Afro-American Studies Committee, said Johnetta Jones, chairman of Afro-American studies.

The committee picked its theme this year since "we are going into a new decade and it is time to look back and reflect where we are now," Jones said.

The first lecture, "Double Jeopardy to be Black and female," will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Booth Library Lecture Room, she said.

Other lectures in the series will concern the black male, the black family, the black child and black economic opportunities, she said.

Dates for those lectures have not been set because the committee still is looking for the best available speakers, Jones said.

Government should not bail out Chrysler

"Brother, can you spare $700 million?"

That is just about what Chrysler Corporation, the nation's third leading automaker, is asking the government.

Chrysler has hit a low point with a record third quarter loss of more than $300 million. The loss has this industry giant taking its last breaths.

The Carter administration, acting as a respirator, has proposed a method of bailing out Chrysler. Treasury Secretary G. William Miller said Friday if Congress approves the plan, the government would assure a $1.5 billion from private sources.

The administration said it was trying to head off a collapse that could result in widespread layoffs and pose more problems for an already troubled economy.

But why reward a company that is draining the economy to begin with? Yes, there is precedent in matters such as this—Lockheed a few years ago was steered defense accounts to bail itself out of financial problems.

At least the Lockheed contracts had some usefulness to the government, but what will these guaranteed loans do for the average American? It will just take $1.5 billion which otherwise could have been given to the social security fund, foreign aid programs, and domestic construction projects.

And these guaranteed loans do not guarantee that Chrysler will suddenly start selling cars and making money.

The best solution to this problem is to let the marketplace dictate the fate of Chrysler. Let the corporation's management, not taxpayers and the Congress, figure out a way to stop bankruptcy.

Versatile Allen provided entertaining performance

Steve Allen, who performed Saturday for Parents' Weekend had a little something for everyone present at Lantz gymnasium, including songs, comedy and music.

Allen is a very versatile performer, at ease with the microphone as well as the piano and even the xylophone. He works well at improvisational comedy and croons with the best of his ability.

His show ran smoothly, even though Jayne Meadows, his wife and comedy partner, was absent due to illness. Allen quipped and talked with his conductor, xylophonist Terry Gibbs, and even played a duo with him on the vibes later on in the show.

Some of Allen's songs were quite amusing, but most were a "boogie-woogie" type, pleasing to the parents in the crowd and even to some who were not used to the music.

Betsey Guzior

One song Allen performed at the 7 p.m. show was a parody on Three-Mile Island, set to hula-type music. ("There's a place so fine where the turbines whine — Three-Mile Island.")

Using the bell-ringing trademark of his years on the "Tonight Show," Allen answered questions from the audience, including, "How the hell did you find Charleston?" and inquiries concerning his career.

Allen also read some excerpts from a future book on the world records. He read some unusual records for the audience, as part of a "test market" for the manuscript.

Allen's brand of comedy is pleasant, non-controversial and clean. During the show, Allen showed the audience some words used by Americans today that strung together into whole sentences. For example, the word "Zol-boy" means "this ole' boy," and "Zapnin" means "What's happening?"

Among the songs Allen played were "Rampart Street Sound," "Love theme from 'Picnic'" and "52nd Street." Allen claims to have written over 4,000 songs, which have been performed by popular musicians like Jerry Vale and others.

Even though Allen, his band and his comedy pleased the audience there may have been something missing by the absence of Meadows.

But he seemed to let the show remain unaffected by this. Gibbs worked well with him, the band played along with him like a charm and the audience seemed to respond warmly to him.

Through a combination of song and comedy, Allen and his entourage made an otherwise cold and disappointing Parents' Weekend more enjoyable.

Red tape delays ISSC funds for students

by Carolyn Waller

Computer problems, an increased number of applications, and cutbacks on funding requests by the Illinois State Scholarship Commission delayed financial aid for some Eastern students this year.

Sophomore Diane Delaney, said she thought the form she got in April said she would receive $600 but the second one she received in August said she would get no money from ISSC.

John Flynn of Eastern's Financial Aids Office and Ralph Godzicki, ISSC director of grants and scholarships, said the ISSC did not expect the rise in tuition costs or the increase of applications this year.

"They asked for less funds this year by thinking the BEOG (Basic Educational Opportunity Grant) would fill in funds students needed," Flynn said.

Senior Wes Russell said he did not get any ISSC money after receiving full tuition and fees from ISSC for the past three years.

However, Russell said he did receive $976 from BEOG.

Godzicki said computer problems at the ISSC office, which made it hard to find information on awards that had been changed, compounded the mix-up in awarding aid.

Flynn added that the Financial Aids Office was not aware of the ISSC computer problems until after the first billing was sent out.

Flynn said students whose awards were reinstated for next semester, will receive a check from the ISSC for tuition money they paid this semester.

Godzicki said problems are occurring at a number of universities all over the state.

He added that the problems are small compared to the 90,000 awards handed out this year.

Approximately 13,000 students or 14 percent of students receiving aid were affected by the mix-up.

If students are having problems with their awards they should contact the Financial Aids Office Godzicki said.

United Way awaits local donations

by Joan Rebecchi

The United Way of eastern Coles County is still waiting for donations from Eastern to reach this year's goal of $51,000, Richard Dobkins, publicity director said Thursday.

Dobkins was still optimistic that the goal would be reached even though donations are not coming in as quickly as last year.

"Many of the contributions from industry and Eastern Illinois University are still out," Dobkins said.

"These two divisions represent a large percentage of the campaign," he said.

Dobkins said Eastern is the second largest contributor to the campaign. Last year Eastern contributed between $11,000 and $12,000, he said.

Contributions last until the end of October but the United Way will accept them through November, Dobkins said.

The United Way supports Girl Scouts, Charleston Civic Association, Help-Line, Council of Aging, 4-H Clubs, visiting nurses and many others, Dobkins said.

Workshop set for self-defense

A self-defense workshop, demonstrating practical ways for women to protect themselves against attack, will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the University Union Old Ballroom.

The workshop, sponsored by the Women's Concerns Committee at Eastern, will teach women basic protective measures against rape and attack. The two-hour workshop is open to the public.

A trained volunteer from the Coles County Women Against Rape group who will conduct the workshop said it will deal mainly with female concerns, but the group urges all interested males to attend also.

Due to harassment in the past, the volunteer asked not to be identified for her own protection, Nancy Olsen, a member of the WCC, said.

Gayle Clark, counselor at Lawson Hall and a member of WCC, said the workshop will teach basic protective moves for women against attack and will not include karate moves in specifics.

She said the women who attend the workshop should feel confident and satisfied after learning the easy self-defense measures. Comfortable clothes should be worn to the session.

A brochure showing the amount of money funded to each agency, with a brief description of their services, is available from any board member or at the United Way office at the old Charleston Hospital, Dobkins said.

Dobkins said donations can be sent to the Eastern Coles County United Way, P.O. Box 515, Charleston, Ill. 61920.

Metro Brass Quintet to perform at Dvorak

The music of the Metropolitan Brass Quintet will be heard at 8 p.m. Monday in Dvorak Concert Hall.

The quintet includes trumpeters Robert Dolwick and John Brndiar, trombonist James Taylor, Charles Ward on the french horn and Richard Barth on tuba, University Board Fine Arts coordinator Constance Greer said.

The Quintet will perform various compositions, including "Music for Brass Quintet" by Gunther Schuller, "Four Moods for Brass Quintet" by Arthur Harris and "Scherzo" by John Cheetham.

Tickets for the performance are $2 for students and $3 for adults.

Volleyball team takes second at Indiana tourney

by Dan Braanan

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Eastern's volleyball team lost a tough decision to Ball State in the championship match of the Indiana Invitational to place second in the tournament.

The tournament was very competitive as several AIAW Division I schools were entered.

Eastern opened the tournament on Friday night with a win over Northern Illinois 9-15, 15-7 and 15-12.

In the next match Eastern lost to last year's regional champions Indiana 15-10 and 15-5.

Eastern played without two of its key players Kathy Schoene and Jennifer Haley, who were both ill on Friday night.

Eastern's coach Lynette Nevins said the offense was changed because these players did not play.

"We switched our offense from a 6-2 which uses two centers to a 5-1 which uses one center," Nevins said. "We adjusted very well after the change."

On Saturday Eastern faced Western Michigan in the opening match and won 11-15, 15-7 and 15-12.

Eastern won its next contest against Lewis University 15-11, 12-15 and 15-12 to make it to the championship game.

"The match against Lewis was very even," Nevins remarked. "They are a very good team."

Eastern came from a 9-4 deficit to win the last game against Lewis.

In the championship game Eastern lost to Ball State in a best three out of five series 6-15, 17-15, 15-7 and 15-9.

Nevins said Eastern was dragging in the finals. "We only had 20 minutes after playing the Lewis game to get ready for the championship game, and it hurt us," Nevins commented.

Nevins also said Eastern's passing was inconsistent in the game.

"We were mentally fatigued and we didn't concentrate well on our passing," Nevins commented.

Nevins credited two freshmen, Maryann Seiwert and Liz Plateau with good individual performances in the tournament.

"Maryann hit and played defense her best of the year this weekend," Nevins said. "Liz also hit and played real well."

The Panthers, now 30-4 on the season, will prepare this week for next weekends state tournament at Loyola University in Chicago.

Nevins said Lewis will be Eastern's toughest competition in the tournament.

"I think we and Lewis are dead even," Nevins remarked. "Either one of us could win the tournament."

Nevins said Eastern probably will be seeded No. 1 in the tournament.

"We know their strengths and weaknesses now, so we should be ready for them," Nevins said.

The team will scrimmage on Wednesday in preparation for the tournament and leave for Chicago on Thursday morning.

Schubert, Schmidt spark Bears

CHICAGO (AP) — Steve Schubert's 77-yard punt return, a 20-yard pass interception by Terry Schmidt and two touchdown runs by Walter Payton carried the Chicago Bears to a 35-7 victory Sunday which saddled the Detroit Lions with their sixth straight defeat.

Schubert's touchdown run came with 1:53 gone in the second half and Schmidt picked off a Jeff Komlo pass 52 seconds later for his touchdown as the Bears piled up their biggest point total since defeating New Orleans 42-17 in 1975.

put into practice. They really worked hard and seemed to have things worked out."

Three offensive players claimed no dissension existed between the offensive and defensive squads.

"We each knew what we had to do, and we just tried to go out and do it," quarterback Steve Turk said. "Maybe there were some problems with some individuals, but as a whole I'd say no."

"The defense might have gotten down a little when things didn't go well for us, because they wanted to win. But I think they accepted it and didn't blame anyone."

Offensive tackle Carl Dobrich said that the "offense and defense always compete hard everytime we're on the field, but that helps both of us. We just work that much harder."

"The defense was upset after Northern Iowa because they played an exceptional game and they wanted to win, but that really didn't bother us," Dobrich said.

Tackle Tom Vander Veen said "there's always going to be some competition on any team. If we would have won, we would have said it was good to have that."

"They (the defensive players) haven't given us that much trouble, and I don't care anything about the ink or what other people say," Vander Veen said.

Mudra blames himself, dissension for failures

by Brian Nielsen

After Eastern's lopsided 49-21 loss to Youngstown State Saturday, Panther coach Darrell Mudra picked up a book and read aloud a passage which told how teams that work against each other are seldom successful.

The reason he brought up the subject was obvious.

"We competed hard against each other in practice, but we didn't profit from it very well," Mudra said. "If I could have gotten everyone going the same direction we would have been better off."

Mudra said he thought dissension among both players and coaches was one of the main reasons that last year's

Darrell Mudra: "I think I may have created some of the dissensions among coaches and players—mainly the coaches I guess."

NCAA Division II champions are now 6-3 and almost certainly eliminated from a berth in the post-season playoffs.

The head coach put much of the blame on himself.

"I think I may have created some of the dissension among coaches and players—mainly the coaches I guess," Mudra said.

"I got away from some of the things I believe in this year," he said. "I didn't delegate nearly as many of the responsibilities as I have in the past. I probably should have worked harder with my coaches rather than being critical of them."

Coaches and players offered a variety of opinions in response to Mudra's assessments.

Linebacker coach Rick Schachner stood strong in support of Mudra.

"There isn't any coach on the staff who doesn't think Darrell is a great coach," Schachner said.

Schachner added, however, that "if there would have been a stronger figurehead on the staff it could have relieved some of the pressure. Last year Darrell was the overseer of everything, but this year he worked more with the offense."

Mudra took over the offense after last year's offensive coordinator Mike Shanahan left for a similar position at Minnesota and then his replacement Jesse Freitas, resigned in the spring.

Offensive line coach Joe Taylor said he thought "the dissension was mostly among the players, not the coaches."

"Within any organization, you're going to have some kind of egos and to a point that's good. But you can't have dissension," Taylor said. "Although I guess if it had gone the other way and we'd have won all these games, we'd be saying its good to have competition among yourselves."

"But this year because of the fact that the defense has gotten a lot of the pats on the back and the ink, it's hurt."

Rick Schachner: "There isn't any coach on the staff who doesn't think Darrell is a great coach."

Anytime you have one side getting all the credit you're going to have dissension," Taylor continued.

"It's bothered us (the offense) in a sense that it put more pressure on us," he said. "And usually when there's not as much pressure on you, it's not as hard to do well."

Defensive coordinator John Teerlink said "it would be best if I don't say anything," but defensive back Rich

Rich Brown: "Last year we had team unity...But this year it's not as strong."

Brown said some of the players had trouble getting along.

"It really hurt last week (in a 10-7 loss at Northern Iowa)," Brown said. "The defense got on the offense pretty hard."

"Last year we had team unity, and that's one of the reasons we won the championship," Brown said. "But this year it's not as strong. I'm really not sure why."

Defensive end Mike Schell said the defense had regained its respect for the offense in last week's practice sessions.

"Especially after last week, I think the defense really had confidence in the offense, because of the week they

Cobb gets record 26th 100-yard game

Eastern football fans did not have much to cheer about Saturday, but they did see Panther running back Poke Cobb break one national rushing record and move close to another.

Cobb gained 173 yards in 25 carries in Eastern's 49-21 loss to Youngstown State Saturday to surpass the old NCAA Division II record of 25 games of over 100 yards rushing set by Jim Van Wagner of Michigan Tech in 1973-76.

Saturday's performance raised Cobb's career rushing total to 4,825 yards, just 14 shy of the all-time Division II mark of 4,839 set by Panhandle State's Jerry Linton in 1959-62.

Cobb is now fifth on the all-time collegiate rushing list regardless of Division. He trails Tony Dorsett of Pittsburgh, who rushed for 6,082 yards; Howard Stevens, who rushed for 5,297 yards in stints for both Randolph-Macon and Louisville; Ohio State's Archie Griffin, 5,177; Charles White of Southern California, 5,061 and Linton.

White is the only player in the list still playing college football.

Cobb, the leading Division II rusher this season with an average of 158.2 yards per game, also bettered his own school single-season rushing record. He now has gained 1,392 yards to break the mark of 1,300 he set last season.

Playing before his mother Marlee Cobb, who came from Clover S.C. to watch her son play for the second time since he came to Eastern, the Panther star was held to 31 yards on 11 carriers in the first half.

He broke loose in the second half, however, getting most of his yardage with runs of 39, 22 and 21 yards.

Women's cross country squad wins regional

by Dave Claypool

LANSING, Mich.—Placing four of its five runners in the top 10, Eastern's women's cross country team blitzed the field and won the AIAW Division II Midwest regional meet Saturday on the Forest Akers course of Michigan State University.

The Panthers, who will now travel to Tallahassee, Fla., for the AIAW Division II national finals on Nov. 17, were led, as usual, by senior Robin Smith.

Smith placed second in the meet with a time of 18:37.6 for the 5,000 meter course, 28 seconds behind the regional's individual champion, Wendy Burman of Wisconsin-Parkside.

"Burman went out fast and Robin lost contact with the lead early," coach John Craft said. "But Robin is determined to do better next time."

Smith's twin sister, Ruth, finished fifth for the Panthers, crossing the line at 19:06.5, while freshman Gina Sperry followed with a time of 19:22.7 for sixth place.

Sonia Olsson and Linda Lomax rounded out the Panther line up finishing 10th and 22nd with times of 20:05.2 and 21:11.5 respectively.

The Panther harriers totaled 37 team points, while the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee finished a distant second, compiling 51, just two points ahead of Marquette. Loyola University concluded the team scores with 77 points.

Craft pointed out that although other schools were represented by runners, only those four teams had the required five runners to qualify for team scoring.

"I was exceptionally pleased with their performance," Craft said. "This is the third time that the girls came through in the clutch."

Craft was referring to narrow victories over Southern Illinois University-Carbondale and Loyola earlier this year.

Craft also noted that the Panthers didn't know much about their competition which did affect their performances somewhat.

"We tried last week to get some sort of data about the girls which we would run against, but didn't," Craft said.

Craft also pointed out that the women are "really ecstatic" about the victory and are "looking forward to the trip to Florida."

"We will be representing one of nine regions throughout the nation," Craft said. "And our region should be one of the strongest."

Craft feels that the women have an excellent chance to do well in the national finals and added, "we'll be going for the championship."
